

Prosecution Case Management System (PCMS)

The Problem

Many prosecutors spend valuable energy tracking information already stored somewhere else. Some offices find it difficult to share critical information, because they use different methods to manage cases.

The ASG Solution

The Prosecution Case Management System, or PCMS, is a leading-edge solution for these problems. PCMS is a secure web application that helps track criminal and juvenile information. It streamlines prosecutors' cases across agencies and circuits, reducing agencies' overall work by helping them share selected data.

PCMS provides an unmatched set of powerful features. It captures thousands of fields and almost unlimited amounts of data. Tools allowing automatic printing of indictments, victim case management, and extensive features for juvenile case management help prosecutors quickly access data they need.

Sharing data means eliminating multiple data entry across agencies and circuits. Because all offices are on the same system, an agency can enter data once, and many prosecutors can use that information. While sharing selected data, PCMS protects information through a variety of security methods.

From small agencies to large circuits, PCMS streamlines operations across a state. By helping prosecutors more easily manage cases, PCMS speeds the delivery of justice services.
